UHC and Communicable Diseases: Tradition and Innovation

Join us for a lively discussion on how the digitalization and innovations can enhance the acceleration of universal health coverage (UHC).

Representatives from international organizations, government officials, private sectors and civil society all gathering in one place, this event will highlight the concept of people-centeredness as one of the keys to accelerate the global efforts to combat communicable diseases and at the same time promote progress toward UHC, highlighting the potential role of innovations. It will delve into how people-centered approach changes the ways risks of the diseases are mitigated, health services and social protection are delivered. It will also highlight that people-centered approach accompanied by novel digital technologies will be a breakthrough for achieving UHC and building resilient society for various health risks.
